Contest callers listed

Eight more area residents are in the running for $1 million in the MCN Read and Win Contest.

Last week, the following people read the ads in the May 15 edition and located their phone numbers listed in them: Robert Kruckow of Van Buren, Debra Zamorski of Van Buren, C. Howell of Van Buren, Rosie Moten of Inkster, Annabelle Craig-Burton of Inkster, James Roby of Romulus, M.L. Campbell of Westland and Nicole Givliani of Inkster.

Unfortunately, 42 other area phone numbers were listed, but calls were not made to MCN to place those individuals on our list of potential winners.

There are still two more weeks for readers to find their phone numbers in the Thursday editions of Michigan Community Newspapers.

Read carefully, you just might have a chance to become a millionaire. See details on Page A-10.

Basham wins primary

Taylor City Councilman Raymond Basham soundly defeated former Romulus School Board member Wayne Avery (1,728 to 1,382) and three others to win the Democratic Party's nomination for the 22nd District State Representative seat from Romulus and Taylor.

The other candidates were Susan Cisko, 361; Kevin McGuckin, 743, and Edward G. Mulka, 114.

Basham will now be a very heavy favorite to win the seat in the June 17 general election battle with Republican Rick Butkowski.

Painting to start

Inkster people who qualify under the income guidelines could have their homes painted at no cost through the Paint the Town program.

Boundries are Annapolis, Harrison, Henry Ruff and the Michigan Central Railroad tracks.

Volunteers are also needed for the Aug. 9 painting project.

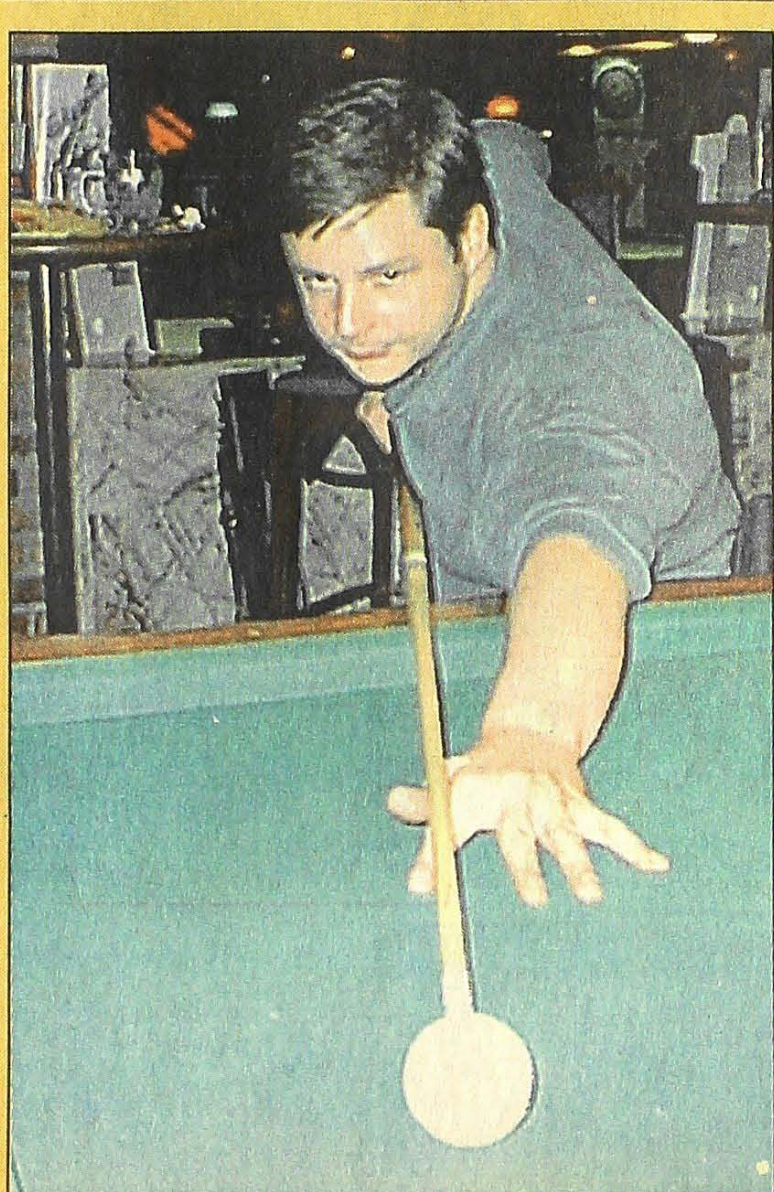

Call NBD Bank at 565-8800 before May 27 for additional information.

Vote on Bird House scheduled for today

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Action on deeding 1.2 acres of land surrounding the historical Bird House to the city of Romulus is expected to take place this afternoon at a meeting of the Wayne County Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services.

Wayne County Commissioner Bruce Patterson (R-Canton) said he sees no problems with the request being acted upon favorably.

Final action will then occur at the full Wayne County Commission meeting on June 5, Patterson said.

The deeding of the land on

Wayne road in Romulus will remove the need for the city to relocate the more than century old home.

A county memo states "the value of the land being deeded to Romulus is less than the cost of relocating the Bird House to the Romulus' Historical Park, as previously planned."

It further states "since no federal funds were used to purchase the property, the Federal Aviation Administration has no objection to the transfer of property."

The Romulus Historical Commission later plans to upgrade the vacant facility and turn it into a tourist attraction.

Mary Banks Park officially dedicated

Over 100 Romulus residents braved the chilly temperatures to witness the official dedication of Mary Ann Banks Memorial Park last weekend.

Mayor William Oakley led a contingent of city officials to the noontime dedication. School Board President Kenneth Berlenn headed a contingent of school leaders at the site of the former Kennedy Park (adjacent to the Romulus Wesleyan Church at Five Points).

Ron Hopson, Oakley's long-time political aide, served as master of ceremonies.

Robin Kaiser, a former Hale Creek Elementary School student, warmly praised the late mayor pro tem and long time Romulus school official as "a mother away from home."

Mrs. Banks, who often was the high vote getter in City Council elections, served as mayor pro tem for most of the past two decades. She also worked for many years with the school district as a secretary, the last years in the special education area.

Worldwide finance scam foiled by local company

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A 10-year international scam involving persons in Nigeria that has resulted in at least two deaths and $5 million in losses has invaded the Romulus business community, Detective Lt. David Early revealed last week.

According to various sources thousands of letters have flooded large American cities such as Los Angeles in recent years with hints that the letter receiver could handle thousands or even millions of dollars for an accountant in Nigeria.

The overseas accountant ultimately asks the American businessman to open and deposit money into a joint account, which then is quickly raided by the Nigerian agent.

Early revealed last week that at least one unnamed Romulus company has received several of those letters in recent months and has in turn alerted Romulus authorities.

Early urges other potential victims to do the same.

While there are numerous variations of the scheme, usually the American victim is asked to pay up front with an "Advance Fee" or "Performance Bond."

Sources say if the victim makes that payment, he then finds various complications arising where he is asked for additional payments until he either quits or runs out of money.

One Virginia businessman has already been scammed out of $4.5 million, authorities say.

Some businesses have lost up to $250 million a year, but tragically some of the schemes turn violent. Some victims are lured to Nigeria, some where else in Africa or even to London.

Back in 1991 one American was burned to death in Nigeria, when he refused to part with any more money. Last year Nigerian extortioners killed another person when the scam attempt failed.

Only two persons have been prosecuted to date for taking part in those schemes--and both those actions were taken outside of Nigeria.

Nigeria still refuses to extradite scam suspects.

Romulus adds 2 policemen

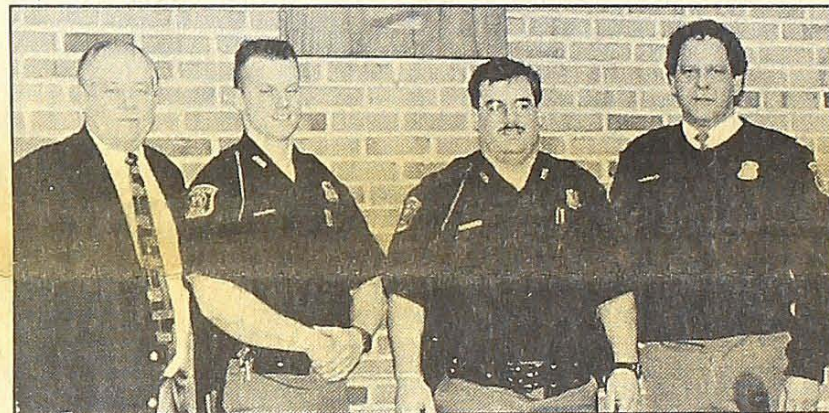

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Two new Romulus Police officers (both former Wayne County Sheriff's deputies) were sworn in recently by Deputy City Clerk Pam Kersey.

The pair included: Steven Showers Jr., 24, a one-year veteran with the Sheriff's Department and Anthony Wayne Norman II, 31, a nine-year veteran with the Sheriff's Department/Metro Airport Police.

They were appointed to fill patrol duties left vacant by the naming of Romulus representatives to the Western Wayne and Down River Auto Theft Police Units.

Showers graduated from the Oakland Police Academy in 1995 and began working as a court officer for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, before switching to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. He plans to get married next month.

Norman graduated from the Detroit Metropolitan Police Academy and received top academic and marksmanship awards. He also worked for two years as a Drug Enforcement Agent at Metro Airport.

Police Chief Charles Kirby, who attended the swearing in ceremony along with Mayor William Oakley, also revealed that four current local police officers recently attended a mountain bike school program. That effort will result in citizens seeing more police officers on the street.

McLachlan urges Full time firemen are needed

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Relatively new political challenger, Rob McLachlan, will be pressing Romulus residents on the need to create a full-time fire department as he campaigns this summer for a city council seat.

McLachlan, who ran a last minute write-in candidacy two years ago, is expected to be one of the top challengers amid a field heavily filled with incumbents this fall.

If 15 or more candidates file for city council seats, a primary will be conducted in September. If not the candidates will face off only in November.

In a prepared release McLachlan stated: "although our volunteers do an outstanding job, a city of Romulus' size with a major airport" and heavy industrial base, should create a full-time fire department. We must consider the safety issues involved for both firefighters and the public.

McLachlan revealed he was very concerned over the volunteers who are risking injury rushing to the fire stations, before the danger of fire is presented.

The 32-year-old self employed salesman said he favored a major effort to attract retail commerce for Romulus, such as shopping sites, restaurants and entertainment centers.

Robert McLachlan

"In my opinion this would be a far better application of tax abatements," he said.

McLachlan said while he is opposed to the deepwell's existence, he hopes that the courts and lawyers soon bring closure to the issue in Romulus.

"I also question the wisdom of stockpiling funds from our water bills." He added "I am appalled that the city has amassed $2.2 million in 'retained earnings,' a rate that has nearly tripled from $800,000 in just one year."

McLachlan's statement concludes with thoughts that grants should be sought for a Community Recreational Center, since no matter where it is placed within the city certain neighborhoods are going to feel slighted.

He expressed hopes that the city and school district could reach an agreement on some extra recreational facilities on property near Hale Creek Elementary School.

McLachlan and his wife, Theresa, have two sons, Jonathan, 7, and Ryan, 5.

He has resided in Romulus for the past three years, having previously lived in Dearborn Heights and serving as a member of the Westwood School Board (1985-93).

McLachlan also is active as president of the Halecreek Community Association, a member of the Halecreek PTG, and serves as Cubmaster of Packs 1739 and 739.

He recently was named district commissioner of the Huron District Boy Scouts of America.

Belleville mourns loss of former city official

The Belleville area is mourning the loss of a former city official.

For most of his life, Royce E. Smith was a public servant. After sitting on the Belleville City Council for two years, Smith was elected mayor, a position he held from 1964 to 1975. He also served a term as Wayne County Commissioner. Smith was the owner of Sinclair Petroleum Products bulk plant, and later became the managing director of the Wayne County Department of Public Works. He was a member of Myrtle Lodge 89 F & AM holding a 32nd degree, the Shriners, the Oddfellows, the 15th District Democratic Party, and the First United Methodist Church.

In 1995, Smith was rewarded for his community involvement, as he was honored with the Ted Kuckelman Community Service Award.

He died at his Belleville home on May 14. Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. May 17 at First United Methodist Church, with Rev. Edwin C. Hoff officiating. Cremation rites have been accorded.

Smith was born Oct. 8, 1915 in Anna, Ky. to the late Samuel and Zetta Mae Smith. He was the brother of Jane Marie Swan and Joe Neal (Dorothy) Sparks, both of Celina, Tenn.

Memorial contributions may be sent to Shriners Hospital for Children (2211 N. Oak Park Ave. Chicago, Ill. 60707-3392), or the Belleville First United Methodist Church Food Closet. Funeral arrangements were made by the David C. Brown Funeral Home.

Canton honors officers

National Police Week was observed in Canton Township with its 11th annual Awards and Citations Ceremony at the Summit on the Park.

Law enforcement is often referred to as "the thin blue line" that separates order and chaos. The program for the event featured a thin blue line on its cover to express the support for law enforcement officers everywhere during National Police Week.

The following awards were presented:

- Department citations to Canton Officer Chad Baugh and Sgt. Charles Raycraft and Westland Officer Steve Bachand.

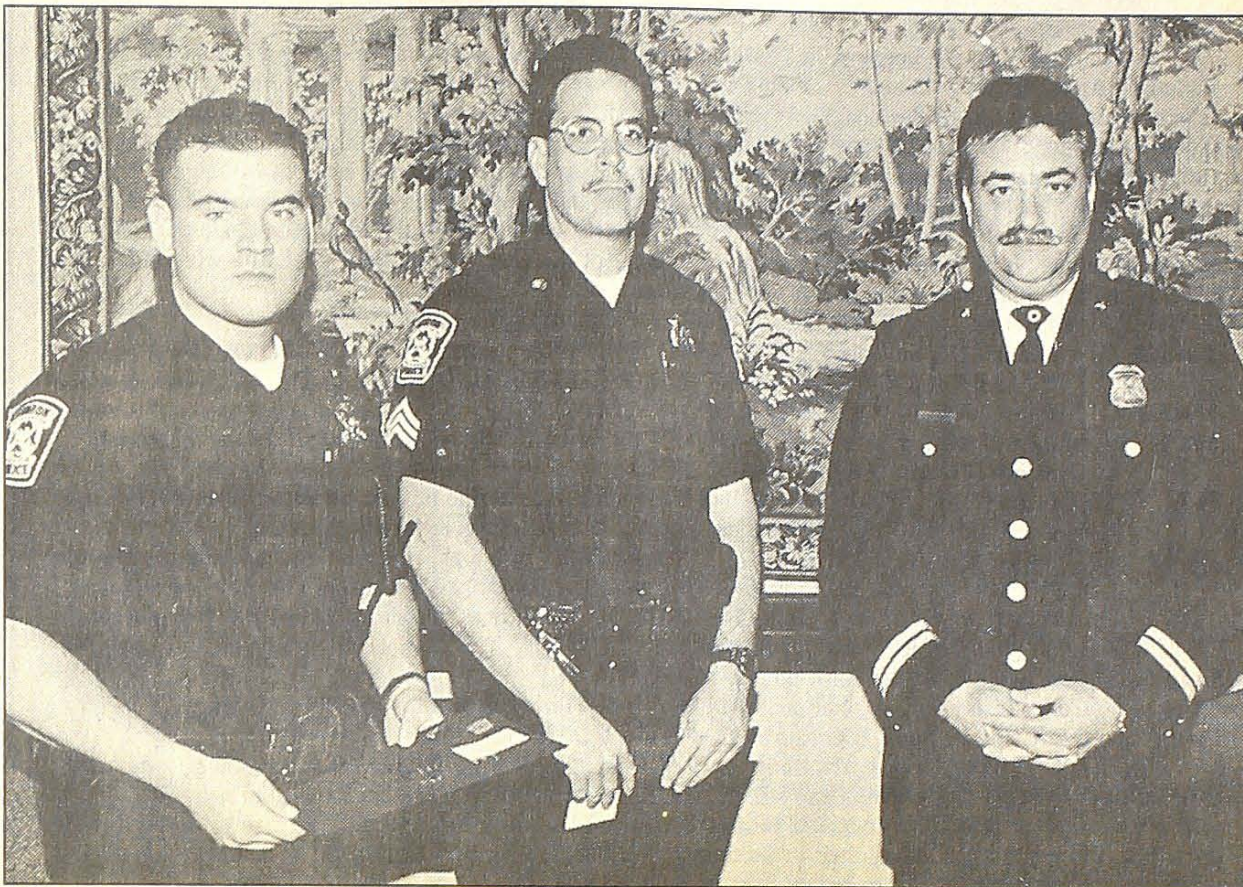

- Certificates of Merit went to Officer Mark Gajeski, Det. Richard Pomorski, PSSO Anastacia Reynolds, PSSO Victoria Sliman, Sgt. Jerry Hardesty, Officer Michael Steckel, Det. William Keppen, Det. David Schreiner, Officer Timothy Wright and Officer Todd Koch, all of Canton, plus Plymouth Township officers Shawn Corbett, William Fetter, Robert Antal, Eric Anderson, Westland Sgt. Tim Kennedy and Van Buren Officer Larry Temple.

A departmental commendation went to PSSO Michael Quinn, a certificate of appreciation was given to Roy Forsyth, and Safe Driving Awards were presented to Officer Daniel Woodward and officers Robert Smedley, Debra Newsome and James Harrison. Civilian citations were awarded to Skip Barnett, Mark Bomia, Mark Mastie, Henry Budesky, Carolyn Nevi, Gary Anania, Terry Ahern and Nancy Nail.

The ceremony honored two fallen officers: Patrick Prohm and Sgt. Paul Cole.

6 candidates seek two 4-year terms on school board

Wright focuses on good education

Financial stability and academic excellence are the major issues facing the Wayne-Westland School District, according to Marshall Wright, candidate for the school board.

Wright said financial security can be gained by the following solutions: "lobby for reform of state funding, liquidate surplus school-owned properties, develop partnerships with the business community and negotiate with the various unions to develop cost saving strategies."

Academic excellence that improves MEAP scores and encompasses career and technology guidance can be attained with quality teachers -- specialists with additional training in teaching techniques and ongoing skill enhancement -- and new curriculums or pilot programs which especially target reading, math and science.

Wright uses the following example to make this point, "Computer based accelerated reading pilot programs currently at Adams and Marshall middle schools."

An improved school system should prove to be an important factor in attracting new families to the community and ultimately affecting the student population.

Wright is currently a CYO athletic coach, Westland Winterfest volunteer, Westland Playscape Committee member, Leadership Team member, Westland Youth Athletic Association coach, Michigan Democratic Club, 13th District.

He served as vice president of St. Gerard's Consolidated School Board and has been involved with numerous community organizations.

Gary Green, who has been active in the Wayne Lions, Wayne Youth Athletic Association, and Westland Hockey Association, is seeking his first public office.

Green believes the two major issues facing the Wayne-Westland School Board are: state funding for education and how to improve test scores.

He also believes violence in the schools is a major issue, and would like to see the school district do more for "at risk" students at a younger age.

Appointed trustee seeks post

Ed Turner, who was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education last June, is seeking election to a four-year term.

Turner believes the two major issues facing the school district are raising students' standards and MEAP scores, and learning how to live within the district's budget.

"Our current operating budget and future projections are a disaster. The board leadership and administration continue to apply short term fixes to long-term problems at the district's expenses. These problems are affecting us now and will continue to affect everything in the district from A to Z until they are corrected. Our operating budget needs to be fixed and it needs to happen now," said Turner.

The candidate has been active in community activities, including the Wayne-Westland YMCA board of directors, Wayne-Westland Council for the Arts, Wayne's World Youth Theater, secretary of Wayne

Incumbent seeks re-election to school board

Mathew McCusker, who has served on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education from 1982 to 1991 and 1993 to the present, is seeking another term on the board.

When questioned as to the top priority of the school board, McCusker replied, "finances, finances, finances."

McCusker would like to see the passage of a bone issue for rehabilitation and technology and also the projection of the five-year curriculum plan into the 21st century.

"The overriding issue in any school board race has to be adequate to support the curriculum that will better prepare our students for the future. Post-Proposal A is not at all fair to all, and parts have to be changed to give back local control that Proposal A took away," McCusker said.

Stange supports technology

Jack Stange's reason for seeking the school board post is "to give taxpayers a voice in our school board."

He sees the following two items as the major issues facing the school district: the need for new technology and up-to-date teaching aids, which could be purchased through a bond issue, and computers and software for all students.

"Books should be purchased in large enough quantities so they can be taken home for studying purposes," he said. "The district should purchase enough computers and software to ensure that our children/young adults are knowledgeable in their use."

In addition, Stange would

Diva reigns as top dog in Inkster

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

Although she's not quite two-years old, Champion Walker Mountains Diva has achieved more success than any other dog in her breed.

The Neapolitan mastiff, owned by Andre Bolling of Inkster, won a first in breed, a top five in group eight, and a top 10 of all breeds at a show in Canada last weekend. Diva is also a champion in five organizations, the American Rare Breed Association, the United States Neapolitan Mastiff Club, the Neapolitan Mastiff Club of America, the Federation of Rare Breeds (FORB), and the Canadian Championship. Diva was ranked second of 108 dogs at a recent FORB show.

"It's very prestigious that she did this all before she was two," said Bolling. "Usually it takes a dog until they are five or six to achieve all of that. She was the first Neapolitan mastiff to take the Best of Show award."

Diva's owner said he knew she would be a champion before he even purchased her. "I did a lot of research and called around for three to four months to find out who had the best puppy," Bolling said. "I spent approximately $1,800 on her. Her father was a champion, so I expected her to do well. She hasn't let me down yet. She has surprised me many times, and has done even better than I expected. She has beaten dogs which are three to five years old, leaving the owners furious. The judges explained to them that she has very good movement and is a very sound dog."

While he would like to attend all of the shows, Bolling relies on handler Michelle Smithbarbour to take his dog to the different events. Aside from Michigan, Diva has appeared in shows in California, Las Vegas, Colorado, Florida, Washington D.C., Canada, and other locations.

Diva has appeared in dog shows since she was about seven months old. Over the past year, Bolling said he has spent between $5,000 and $6,000 showing her.

Bolling began working with this breed of dog after an accident left him paralyzed from the waist down, 13 years ago. He has always been around dogs, and his father used to train and show dogs. Bolling stuck with the Neapolitan mastiff because of their size, as well as their attitude. He said the breed doesn't stray too far from the home.

"I like large dogs," he said.

"I like to train them so that they attack on my command. I like being able to go to sleep in my chair, and not have to worry about someone robbing me blind. If someone comes after me, there's not much I can do, but, they would have to kill my dogs first."

Bolling explained that Diva will probably appear in two or three more shows before he begins training her to be a guard dog. When this takes place, she will join Bolling's two other Neapolitan mastiffs and a fila brasileiro. Once Diva is trained, Bolling said he plans to show her as a guard dog.

Due to his paralysis, Bolling relies on the dogs obeying his verbal commands.

"I can't physically go and grab the dog, so they have to understand my verbal commands," he explained. "When I tell them what to do, they know by my voice what I mean, if they are being good or bad. When I tell them to get in the backyard, or I say 'leave it alone,' which means stop attacking or stop chasing a cat, they'll know what I mean."

Bolling said he gets a lot of enjoyment from these intelligent and agile dogs, but adds that it takes a lot of time, money and patience to raise this breed, as well as much who own this breed.

"Once we have the club established," Bolling explained, "we will have more say in when the shows come here, and what judges come. We may set up a specialty show featuring all Neapolitan mastiffs." If you are interested in this breed, or would like to join the owners club, call (313) 277-1651.

Personality Profile Dick Polehna is 'man behind camera'

By SHARON POPEK
MCN Special Writer

Westland resident Dick Polehna and his wife, Mary Ann, have lived in the city for the past 28 years. This may come as a surprise to many people who see Dick at every event in the city of Wayne working for the news show.

They raised five kids who are grown now: Karen, Kelly, Richard, Kimberly and Gary. Family also includes three grandchildren, Danny and David, who live in Allen Park, but have spent a lot of time with their grandparents, as well as Tia who is now 6 and lives in Tennessee.

Dick grew up on a farm in Lansing and in Detroit. He served an apprenticeship at Ford Motor Co. and pursued his education in the engineering field.

"It was interesting and diversified work with many challenges involved in testing," but Dick chose to retire in May of 1991.

An animal lover from way back, Dick says his family has provided a home for an alligator, birds, fish, turtles and rabbits. They have always had a dog, "the bigger the better!" Presently, he is "owned" by Niki, a fawn-colored Great Dane. Previously, he owned Samantha, a blue-black Great Dane who was our first animal guest on the Wayne News Show.

Boxers were his original dogs. Other hobbies include hunting, fishing, photography and now video taping.

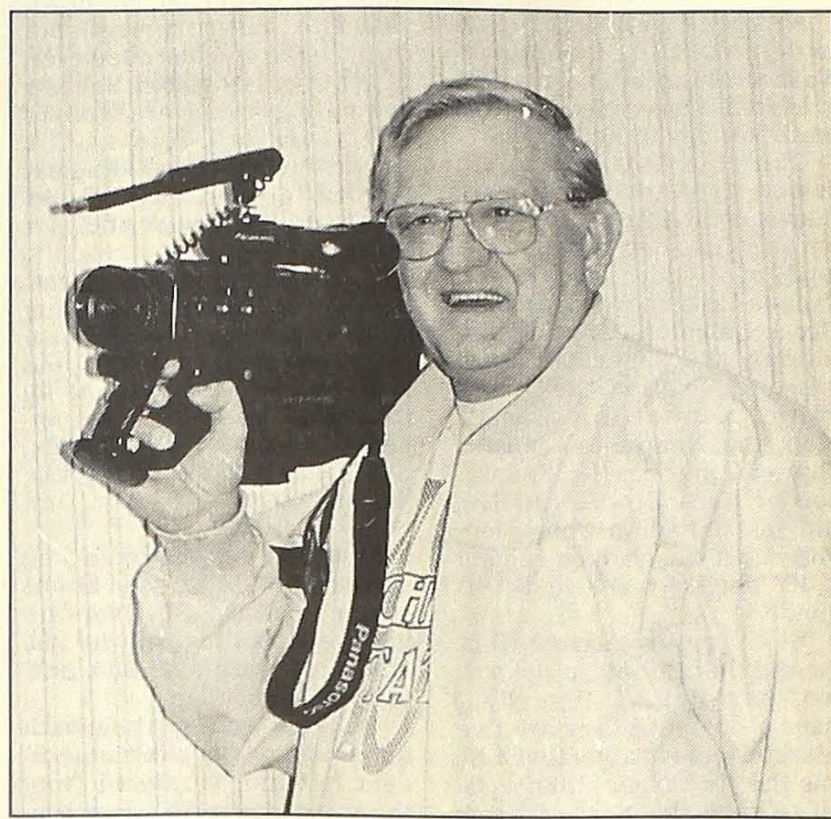

Looking forward to retirement and knowing how much he enjoys traveling and taking pictures, Dick thought video would make a nice hobby. Daughter Kelly bought him a video camera for Christmas in 1990 because she wanted pictures of her sons.

"The film turned out great and I was hooked," he reported.

Dick read and researched manuals and directions before he contacted Pam Waskull-Holmes at Cable Vision. She asked him to bring in samples and before he knew what happened, he was our number one volunteer on the Wayne News Show. He's still with us, but now officially on the staff with a paycheck of the Wayne Update (Time Warner).

He also works in Westland and Dearborn Heights and has received awards from Continental TV for lighting, directing and "best show." He's also received recognition from the city of Wayne, VFW and the American Legion.

Presently, Dick spends about 30 hours a week taping or making copies of tapes. He attends all sporting events, school events, entertainment, family and neighborhood projects ... "anything but criminal activities or accidents."

"Every wedding is different," said Dick, who began taping weddings, anniversaries and graduation parties four years ago. His wedding tapes sometimes include showers or still pictures added to make it more interesting. Dick said he does draw the line at taping honeymoons!

Involvement with kids is what he likes the best, and recently he received a pin, certificate and cache of tapes from Vandenberg School. Some schools have dedicated books in their libraries for his volunteer work. He likes to show skaters, band members, kids in plays, etc. to give them recognition for their efforts and accomplishments. He and Mary Ann rode the bus with the Jazzettes when they skated at the Palace. He made a show which featured each skater and has been considered part of the Booster Club ever since.

Snooker champ wins wheelchair billiards tourney

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

The Viking Cue US Open Wheelchair 9-Ball Championship had a Hollywood ending.

Three-time European snooker champion Matt Duffy won the two-day, double-elimination tournament by sinking the 9-ball on the break of the final game at the Electric Stick Cue Club at 6581 N. Wayne Road in Westland.

"I never won a tournament on a break before," said Duffy. "I never won a 9-ball tournament before. Snooker is my game."

Duffy defeated Hinie Markham, of Canton, Ohio, 7-6 in a seesaw match that Markham a blew a chance to put away.

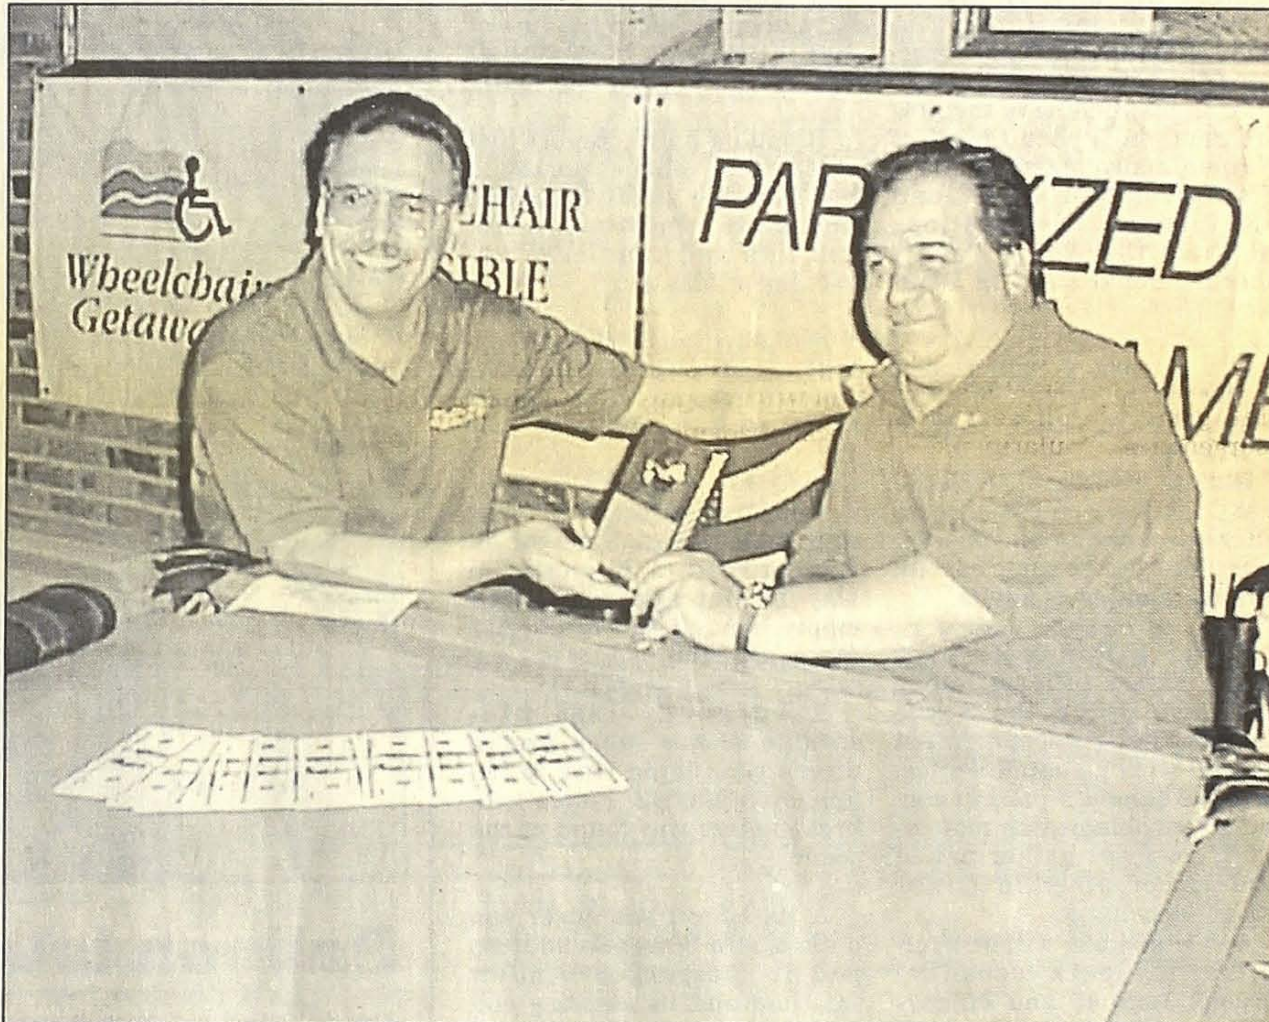

Leading 6-5, Markham missed the 9-ball on an easy setup. Next shot, Duffy dropped it in the corner pocket to tie the match at 6-6. After the balls were racked in a diamond configuration, Duffy pulled his elbow way back and took a strong stroke that scattered the balls and pocketed number 9.

For his efforts, he won the first prize -- $2,000 in cash, a $2,000 Viking, and a plaque.

Runner-up Markham won $1,000 and a $200 Viking case. "This was my best tournament finish," said Markham. "I'm looking forward to a rematch next year."

Cash prizes were awarded to 20 of the 32 entrants. The rich purse drew players from as far away as Europe to George Marvaso's stylish Electric Stick.

The one local player, Mitch Zukowski of Westland, finished out of the money.

Bob Calderon presents $1,000 runner-up prize to Hinie Markham

According to Bob Calderon, president elect of the National Wheelchair Sports Association, wheelchair pool is growing.

"Our membership has tripled in the last two years," he said. "This is a low-impact sport in which a good wheelchair player can compete equally with a player who stands. Several of our players shoot in regular tournaments."

As a result of the sport's popularity, the association promotes 14 national tournaments, with the Open being one of the two best.

"The players look forward to coming here because of the generous prize money and the Electric Stick's pleasant atmosphere and good food," said Calderon.

The 8,000-square-foot club features 24 oak billiards tables in a comfortable setting. Two tall marble and glass fireplaces and a floral carpet give the club a homey feel.

Elden looks forward to retirement

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

In less than a month, the Sumpter Police Department will lose two of its top officials. Chief Clinton Brown announced his retirement a few weeks back. Now, Lieutenant/Detective Wanda Elden has announced that she, too, will retire, effective June 1.

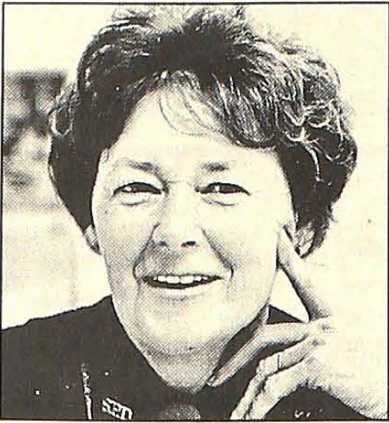

"It has been a challenge I've enjoyed," Elden said, summing up her illustrious career with the department.

The lieutenant began working in the township in 1972 as a temporary part-time deputy clerk. Due to family and children, Elden declined when she was offered the full-time position. In 1974, Elden became the full-time secretary to Police Chief Terry Williams. She also became the police department's dispatcher.

In 1977, Elden graduated from the Police Reserve Academy, and received the Scholastic Achievement Award. As a reserve officer, Elden was responsible for the arrest of six men, ending a rash of arson cases in the community. For this, Elden was recognized by the township board with a certificate of appreciation for Service Above and Beyond the Call of Duty.

In lieu of attending the police academy, Elden was given the title of police matron in 1978. Two years later, she graduated from the Detroit Metropolitan Police Academy. Her class set the all time high scholastic score for the MLEOTC Post Test for the state of Michigan.

In 1981, Elden became Sumpter Township's first female police officer, and was the only female deputized by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department as a special deputy to work on a drunk driving task force.

Throughout the years, she progressed through the ranks of corporal, sergeant, detective sergeant, and finally detective lieutenant.

Detective Lt. Elden received a citation from the Michigan State Police in 1993 for Professional Excellence for her assistance on the investigation which led to the conviction of subjects responsible for a brutal murder.

With all of these accomplishments, it would be hard to choose the biggest. Detective Lt. Elden feels a sense of pride when she thinks of the way she has handled all of the challenges she has faced.

"It's my professionalism. My ability to do a good job has never been an issue or a question," she said. "I'm proud of my reputation of doing and handling my cases in a professional manner. I have a good, professional reputation among my peers and in the courts that I have had contact with. I am proud of that."

One person who agrees with her assessment is Tom Mooradian, a reporter, who once covered the Belleville area.

"She is one of the finest officers ever to serve in this area," he said. "You could always count on her to give you the information, and she would never side-step a controversial issue. Wanda Elden is a straight-forward, professional law enforcement officer."

Upon her retirement, Elden said she will miss working with Chief Brown the most.

"I've worked with him every day for 23 years," she said, adding that she will also miss the contact with the other people in the department, who have become such good friends over the years.

Detective Lt. Elden said Brown's announcement of retirement did not affect her decision to retire.

"I've been saying that I want to retire for a few years now," she explained. "I have six small grandchildren, and I want to spend this time with them. When they want to visit or stay over, I have to tell them no because I have to work. It's important to me and them that we get to spend this time together."

While she plans to stay in Sumpter Township for a while, Elden said she would eventually like to move up north, where she has family. "It's not too far from my kids, who are all spread out down here," she said. "I'd like to be able to take my grandkids and have them come stay with me for a weekend at my house."

Aside from spending more time with her family and her mother, Elden has many hobbies she would like to pursue. These hobbies include photography, horseback riding, and travel. She is also a certified scuba diver, and has her student pilot's license.

Although they are excited for her, Elden said some of her children think she should take on the chief's position to be able to say she retired as chief.

"That's not a goal of mine," Elden said. "I'm happy with what I've already achieved."

Young Canton golfer follows Tiger's lead

By TONY BRUSCATO
MCN Special Writer

Not in the past 30 years has the game of golf seen a resurgence of popularity like it's seeing today. And golfers everywhere can thank one man, Tiger Woods, for bringing a game which had to share popularity with the likes of baseball, soccer and tennis back to the forefront in summer play.

"Golf in general plateaued out in the '80s and '90s," said Angus Beaton, owner of McDuff's and McDivot's golf shop on Canton Center Road in Canton. "We're seeing a lot more grandparents and parents come into the shop to get junior clubs because the kids are getting more interested in the game. Golf shops are looking at a resurgence of about 15 percent in sales, mostly because of Tiger."

"I love that guy. He's my idol," said Brendan Wheeler of Canton, who at age 15 can already play with some of the best of them and hopes to be like Tiger Woods some day.

"I like the way Tiger plays the game," said Brendan. "He's showing the world that golf is no longer just a game for adults. And he's so good at so young an age, he's challenging other kids to play well."

Brendan may indeed be the next Tiger Woods. A freshman on the Plymouth-Canton golf team, Brendan shoots in the high 30s when playing the par 36 Hill Top Golf Course during school competition.

And when he gets a chance to play Meadowbrook Country Club, where he caddies, Brendan can walk away shooting a 78. That's only six over par, a figure many adults would kill for.

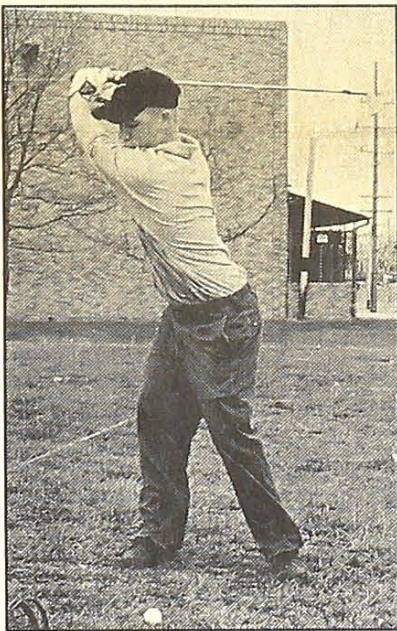

"I like to play competitively because it gives me an incentive to become better," commented Brendan. "I like to play with adults and pros from other courses because it makes me play well."

Brendan's story could be like that of Tiger Woods, except while Tiger started at age 3, Brendan began at the age of 10 and has gotten better in only five years.

"I pretty much have a God-gifted talent," said Brendan. "It started when my mom gave me a couple of clubs and started helping me get into tournaments. I began shooting in the 90s when I started and got better with practice."

Brendan said practice is the real key, and he does it in some form every day.

"I have some pins I use to aim at when I hit wedge shots in a field near my home, and I practice my putting a lot at local courses or go to the range," noted Brendan. "During the high school golf season, we play every day. Otherwise, I try to get out about three times a week to keep in practice."

And just like Tiger, Brendan has his sights on becoming a professional golfer.

"That's all I think about, turning pro," said Brendan. "I want to go to college in a warm climate so I can play every day and then some day hit the tour."

Brendan's dream may not be too far off, because not only can he shoot the ball well, he can put the numbers up in school, too, compiling a 3.3 high school average in his freshman year.

"I got Tiger Woods' autograph when he played at Oakland Hills last year," Brendan said proudly. "I didn't get to talk to him because it was so crowded, but it was just a thrill to see him."

Don't be surprised if some day Brendan Wheeler is again at Oakland Hills, this time with young golfers seeking his autograph.

Memorial Day honors million who gave their lives

Memorial Day is a time of remembrance and contemplation of what America and its citizens have lost... and gained. Over the span of this nation's history more than a million citizen soldiers have died in the cause of freedom. We can count the markers, row upon row, where lies the bodies of our fallen heroes, but we can never count the lost dreams, unfulfilled hopes, and broken hearts caused by so many taken away in the fullness of their lives.

The words below, written during World War I by the soldier-poet Joyce Kilmer, eloquently speak of the toll war imposes on the young people of a nation.

"In a wood they call the Rouge Bouquet,
There is a new-made grave today,
Built by never a spade nor pick,
Yet covered with earth ten meters thick.
There lie many fighting men,
Dead in their youthful prime.
Never to laugh or love again,
Nor taste the summertime."

Since 1868, when retired U.S. General John A. Logan, head of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order designating this day as one on which the graves of military dead would be decorated, this nation has rightfully paused to remember the precious prices of its heritage and to be grateful for those who have been willing to stand firm against the ill winds of tyranny to secure and protect the blessings of liberty.

As we rush to meet the demands of our everyday lives, let us pause for a moment to reflect on what the sacrifice of these American lives means. How many beautiful poems were never written by Sergeant Kilmer, who died from a sniper's bullet while on a voluntary night reconnaissance mission? How many young fathers or mothers never got to experience the simple pleasures of watching their children grow and thrive under the freedoms they fought to protect? How many hopes and dreams that the promise of a future holds were dashed because their holders saw a greater call and nobility in serving their country and fellow man?

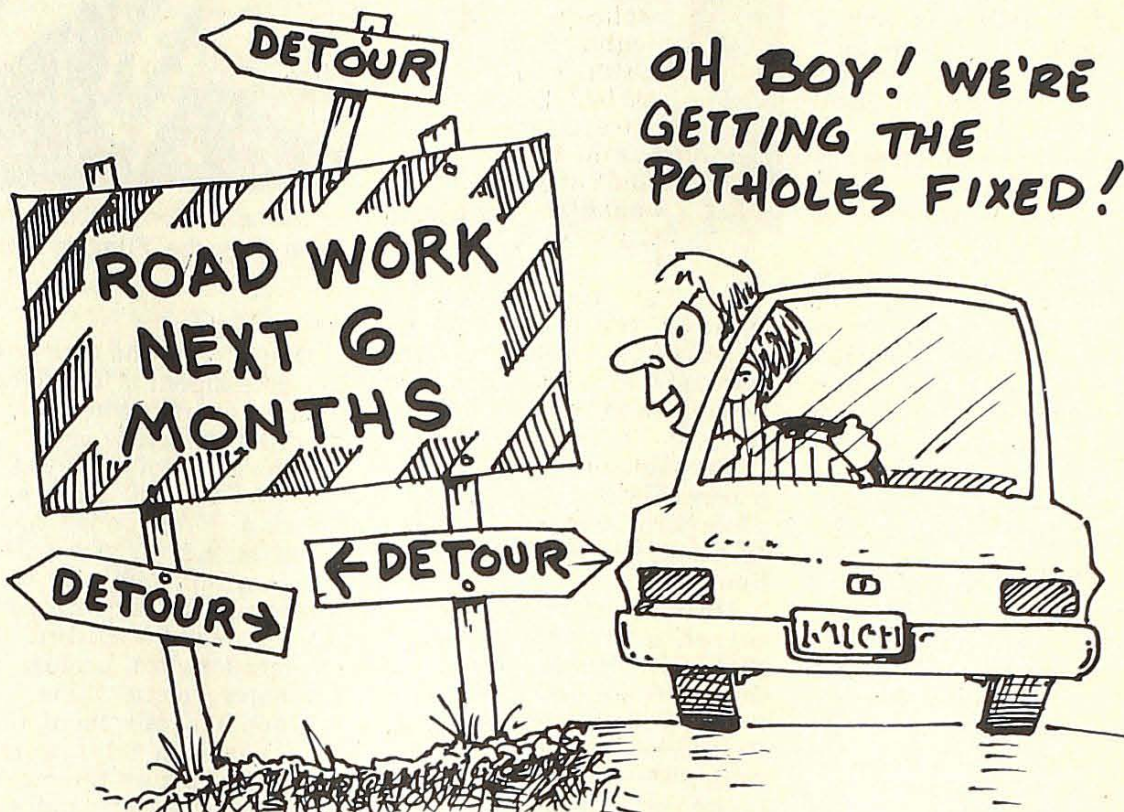

This story of lost dreams is repeated a million times and more in VA national cemeteries and other final resting places across America and on foreign soil. Those of us who live in a world of freedom secured by the sacrifices of our best and bravest should always remember and honor them. For in their gallantry and contributions to freedom, they represented the character of our nation. To advance in the face of hostility, to die for a country and people you love, is a gift to be cherished. We cheer the conquering hero. We must never forget those who never returned. We honor our dead by caring for those who fought with them and today bear the scars and wounds of war.

Let us remember the sacrifices of all those who have served and their families who waited and prayed for their safe return. Let us pay tribute to those no longer with us, but who helped guarantee our way of life. And let us exercise with fervency the rights for which they died.

On this Memorial Day, we offer our prayers of thankfulness and gratitude in remembrance of those who shall never "laugh or love again, nor taste the summertime."

EDS provides update

To the editor:

Environmental Disposal Systems, Inc. (EDS) has recently received numerous questions regarding the status of its permit applications for its Citrin Drive and Northline Road deep well projects.

Citrin Drive Facility: On May 1, 1997, the State of Michigan Department of Environmental Quality's Geological Survey Division held a public hearing to receive public comment regarding EDS' application to install two deep wells at this site. Prior to this hearing, the Geological Survey Division (GSD) found these applications to be administratively and technically complete. The GSD will accept written comments on these applications until May 22, 1997, after which they will decide whether or not to issue these permits.

EDS' USEPA Deep Well permit applications for these two wells have been submitted and are under review. If the USEPA decides they have intent to issue permits they will first issue draft permits and will hold a public hearing to receive public comment. No draft permits have been issued nor has a public hearing been scheduled at this time.

If and when the USEPA issues a draft permit for the deep wells, EDS will submit its response to questions raised by the State's Waste Management Division (WMD) regarding EDS' application for a permit to construct a Hazardous Waste Treatment, Storage and Disposal Facility. The WMD will review EDS' response to determine if it is complete. If the WMD finds it to be complete, they will begin their technical review. The WMD will hold public hearings before any decision is made to approve the permits to keep the public informed.

Northline Road Facility: This facility has a deep well constructed under USEPA and GSD permits. Permit applications have also been filed for a second deep well at this facility which are currently under review.

EDS has not, as yet, submitted an application for a Treatment, Storage, and Disposal Facility construction permit to the WMD. However, recent Michigan Court of Appeals and WMD decisions have now cleared the way for EDS to proceed with this permit process.

The use of the Northline Road site, instead of the Citrin Drive site, has been encouraged as a means to utilize existing natural resources. This encouragement was provided by the Honorable Senator Bennett and the Honorable Mayor Gregory Pitoniak of Taylor at the recent May 1, 1997 public hearing.

As a result of these new developments, EDS will prepare and submit an application for a Treatment, Storage, and Disposal construction permit to the State's Waste Management Division in the near future.

We have provided the status of our various permit applications to answer any questions readers might have regarding the complex permitting processes. If any reader has additional questions we encourage you to call or write us.

Dr. Death supported

To the editor:

Al Post, in his April 14 column, seems to have blanketed all Romulus residents in like opinion as expressing hope that County Prosecutor O'Hair "takes a strong stance against Kevorkian." I strongly disagree!

Citizens in this country are subjected to laws passed down non-stop from all levels of bureaucracy. The People are then left to sort out and live the good laws, and somehow discard the bad ones. So people need to read, study, and know their constitutions, State and Federal. They need to realize that our constitutions are not the means by which Governments grant a list of Rights to the People and otherwise control them and their possessions. Instead, constitutions are contracts that define and limit the power and authority of Governments and how they may act on behalf of its citizens. Citizens on juries must know that as Jurors, they may occasionally have to judge the law itself, though passed by well-meaning Representatives. To be in violation of a citizen's rights, and not the accused.

The "Kevorkian Law", having been on trial at least twice, has been judged dead on arrival by those jurors representing the People of this State. Remember that Dr. K. admitted he was totally involved in "assisting" those people. These facts make it clear that most people who may someday suffer very personal tragedies in their own dying days, and sometimes months, will not allow this State to legislate its way into their death bed decisions.

By the way, how about the latest strategy on this matter? The State wants to catch Dr. K. in another assisted suicide so it can prosecute Dr. K. for not having the medical license the State took from Dr. K. for assisting with suicides! I wonder how many have called Lansing, pointed out this completely brain-dead logic, and demanded the "Get Kevorkian" money be transferred to our road repair fund!

I agree there are attempts "to cloud men's minds" on this issue. One I see is by attaching "The Netherlands" rhetoric to the Kevorkian discussion, either ignorantly or deceitfully. I understand the Netherlands fears to be about euthanasia, which has nothing to do with assisted anything! After all, when we euthanize a diseased animal, we are not assisting it with its suicide.

I would like to welcome the "clients" of Dr. Jack, with their families, as well as other dying patients with their consenting physicians, to come enjoy the many fine hotels and eateries here in Romulus. You see, City taxes are assessed on all hotel

School trustees dive into hot water

More than one school board trustee is in "hot water" over money spent on out-of-state convention trips, and they are making some big splashes as they attempt to regain their footing on dry land.

Whether or not there is merit in attending out-of-state conferences or conventions is a decision that the individual school boards and superintendents should make. And, those decisions should be made with careful regard for the taxpayers' dollars.

Before out-of-state trips are approved, the question of "Is this trip necessary?" should be raised.

Can the information be obtained locally? Does the potential benefit of the conference merit the expenditure of funds? Is it necessary for more than one individual from a district to attend a conference? Is the material available from another source (for example, the Internet)? Could a group of districts designate one representative to attend a conference and report back to each of them?

At a time when many school districts are strapped for money, we believe it is an unwise move for individuals to spend taxpayers' dollars on travel and entertainment when basic programs are strapped for cash and cries for additional funding are raised.

On one hand, school districts cannot plead poverty to the taxpayers and legislators and, on the other hand, spend money for board members' travel expenses. As we are witnessing from the public outcry over convention expenses, the residents of school districts are holding their representatives accountable for proper management of their schools and expect "belt tightening" when finances are limited.

It is appropriate for the voters to demand a high standard of ethics from their elected officials, and those officials need to "avoid the very appearance of evil" in their dealings with the taxpayers' money.

If not, the public will take their case to the polls.

Keep safe during holidays

Memorial Day, in addition to being the time to honor fallen heroes, is the unofficial start of the summer season.

The calendar may indicate that June 21 is the beginning of summer, but the Memorial Day weekend is regarded by most as its beginning, just as Labor Day is regarded as the end of summer — regardless of what the calendar states.

In days past, Memorial Day, known as Decoration Day, was more of a somber holiday — observed rather than celebrated. It was a time to remember those who given their lives in service to their country and also a time to remember friends and family members who had died.

Today, it is celebrated with parades and special programs in many of our communities, but when the bands have finished playing and the marchers have walked the course, the focus of the holiday turns to relaxation and recreation.

Memorial Day is a time for family gatherings, three-day trips, picnics, backyard cook-outs and preparations for the season to come. It is a time to set out plants and flowers, clean out the camper or trailer, open the swimming pool and take the boat out of storage — everything that needs to be done to enjoy the too-short summer.

and eateries here in Romulus. You see, City taxes are assessed on all hotel fees and the increased business may help reduce my next local tax hike! But I'd urge Dr. Jack and others to schedule their visits here on weekdays as the hotels are usually well-booked on the weekends, and the police are a little less busy chasing drunks and thugs.

So Say Yes to Michigan, where we timidly, bit by bit, give up our Right To Life, Liberty and uh, that other thing, but damn well stand tall for our right to death.

Custodians speak up

To the editor:
I am one of two afternoon custodians at Savage Elementary School, and I too was concerned about the comment made by Chuck Turvey of "cleaning only," when referring to our jobs in the public schools. The previous letters written by the custodians, were great examples of "extra" everyday occurrences that "we" (the custodians) take care of, because "we" care!

One thing that concerns me as well, is that I have never been approached, while at work by any "taxpayer" asking questions or just wanting to look around the inside of our building.

I have overheard people say, "This, is a very clean school" by those who have visited from other districts or have moved into the area registering their child for class.

Granted I work in one of the newest buildings in our district, but the cleaning procedures do not change from one building to the next. All of the buildings are very clean no matter how old that particular building is!

Don't listen to what other people tell you about the "cleaning" or the "maintenance" in these buildings. If you have the people who clean & maintain them. As taxpayers we own these buildings and you are welcomed whenever the custodians are there. Come and take a look for yourselves and then compare them to other school districts, if you please.

We, the employees of Van Buren Public Schools, all strive to do our best to provide a safe, clean environment for the children of our future to learn in, and we are doing a great job!

Van Buren Public Schools are considered one of the cleanest school districts in the state! Get out and look at your schools!

Candidate criticized

To the editor:
I have never read a more depressing letter than the one VBPS Board candidate, Chuck Turvey, wrote to the seniors. In it, he mentions the issue of money 17 times. He uses such words as "picking my pocket, dime, dollar, $1,000,000, extravagant, spend, afford, etc." What hurt me most, as I read this letter, was the realization that the human aspect of children, future citizens, students, or grandchildren were not mentioned even once.

It is obvious that Mr. Turvey views the operations of both educational and business institutions as being identical. They are not the same, for the key elements in each are different. Making a profit is the key element in business. Teaching our children and grandchildren to become the best citizens that they can be is the focal element in education. Mr. Turvey's letter so plainly reveals that he does not recognize this factor.

There are many differences in business and education, and these differences must be understood. When a business needs more money, it merely increases the price of its product and expects the consumer to pay more. When a school district needs more money, it cannot raise the price of its product... the children. It must ask the community for the needed funding.

Mr. Turvey states in his letter, "The people inside the (education) circle pat themselves on the back and give each other awards." This is such an inexpensive method of keeping the incentive and morale of workers high when compared to what the business establishment does for the same purpose. When workers in the business circle earn recognition, they pat each other on the back and give each other attractive monetary bonuses.

Another issue which Mr. Turvey addresses is what he defines as "The extravagant MESSA insurance". He states, "The rest of us have to live with what we can afford." It is obvious that he doesn't have to worry, for after an executive retires from the business corporation, his benefits automatically increase as the standard of living goes up. When one retires from the educational system, his benefits remain the same as they were on the day he retired.

One more difference between these two institutions, that Mr. Turvey ignores is the definition between a school custodian and a cleaning service. When workers in the business establishment finish working, they go home, and a cleaning service very conveniently cleans the facility before the workers return the next day. A cleaning service merely cleans. Our school custodians are not a cleaning service. Although they clean the schools, they provide so much more! They are nursemaids and counselors when they care for and listen to our children's needs. They are doormen when they open the doors for special events and teachers returning to school to work at night in their classrooms. They are round-the-clock fix-it people who come to immediate rescue when a child's desk or a pencil sharpener breaks, when a teacher can't fix a child's broken snow suit zipper, when a toilet clogs, etc. They are trained knowledgeable safety people who protect our children from all sorts of dangerous situations. They serve as security guards, for when someone attempts to break into the school in the middle of the night, they leave their beds and rush to the school to meet the police; then they report back to school a few short hours later to begin their daily routine. They are also friends of the students and our children feel safe with them.

One cannot even begin to compare the role of a school custodian to that of a cleaning service; yet Mr. Turvey interprets them as being the same. Education and business cannot be operated in the same way; for their key elements are very different; yet, Mr. Turvey fails to recognize this obvious fact.

God have us gifts to use to the best of our ability. Let the one whose mind focuses only on money serve on a board in the business world. Let the one whose heart focuses on children's needs serve on the school board!

All deserve applause

To the editor:
Saturday night a group of us attended the production of Man of LaMancha at Belleville High School. The performance was wonderful; we have seen it both professionally and in community theater groups and the class deserves a "bravo". The staging and participants were terrific.

My disappointment at the end of the production was in not seeing the entire production staff and crew invited on stage. I am not certain if this has ever been done, but hereafter it might be a good idea to consult the "crews" as well as the orchestra, and invite them on stage to be honored by the audience.

We are a small community, not a Broadway theater, and most of us come not only to see the plays, but also to support these young people. Think about it for next time; an extra ten minutes to present everyone responsible on stage would make this a complete production for many of us. Reading names in the program brochure is a lasting memento, however it would be nice to see everyone for a moment.

Another area which might be expanded would be more community publicity. Saturday nights attendance was quite small, considering the quality of the performance. The attendance could be improved by additional publicity. There must be students, faculty or community members who could enhance the publicity.

Candidate questioned

To the editor:
There are probably people within the Van Buren School District who feel that district employees are involved in the upcoming school board election only because they want to protect their positions. Wrong!! They are involved because they want to protect those with whom they work... the children.

Most district employees are in daily contact with the children, and the reason that they are thus employed is because they want to serve the children and help guide them into becoming responsible citizens. These same people want persons who have the same goals serving on the school board.

Do we want someone, Chuck Turvey, serving on the school board who:

1. Illustrates hypocrisy; smiles on the outside; yet, is manipulating and calculating on the inside.
2. Professes that he is for education; yet, he portrays those qualities which are the exact opposite of those needed to provide a positive role-model for our youth... honesty, trust, integrity, compassion, honor, knowledge... the list goes on and on.
3. Name calls about certain current Board members' motivations; yet, he, himself, circulates erroneous information to the citizens.

Mr. Turvey is making assumptions that you, the public, agree with his philosophy... which contains a hidden agenda. He is sending a clear and arrogant message, and that message is that YOU cannot think for yourselves. Do YOU, the citizens of this district, truly want someone of this caliber serving on a board that makes decisions about what happens to the children of our district? I don't think so! I believe that the people of this district want someone who exemplifies a positive role-model, one who demonstrates integrity, trust and meticulous behavior, and that person is Ralph Nodwell!!

Turner supported

To the editor:
On June 9, 1997 citizens of the Wayne-Westland School District will have their opportunity to make a positive change by casting a vote for Ed Turner for school board member.

Ed Turner is the ticket required in order to improve our education and take back our school system. Ed has no hidden or personal agenda and is willing to listen to his constituents. He believes in matching our operating budget with our income and not applying short term solutions at the taxpayers expense.

In addition Ed believes that a sound educational plan needs to be developed and implemented. This, Ed feels, can be accomplished by being open to exploring alternatives to our education system and not depending on more money to fix our current district's problems.

Ed Turner's credentials, accomplishments and background qualifies him as the individual needed to make the necessary changes to improve our children's education and future.

Children need stability

To the editor:
We have a nation of promiscuous teens, dangerous gangs and young criminals. The main cause of this began 20 odd years ago when misguided government fools sent out checks to unwed teen mothers, unstable parents who should have adopted out their babies to proper homes. Instead kids were abused.

It has been medically proven that infants not nurtured in the first 3 months have a poor chance to develop normally. You see the result in the uncaring, emotionless young people of today.

Our children's well being should come ahead of all else.

Inside look at Sheriff's units

When Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano planned an open house at the facility on Michigan and Henry Ruff Road, he wanted to illustrate that the department is not just "road patrols and jail duty."

On Thursday, members of senior citizens groups, community associations, area schools and individuals visited the Sheriff's Department between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. to get a glimpse of the many duties performed by the department. In addition, refreshments were served to the visitors.

The first group to arrive at the open house were third- and fourth- graders from Meek Elementary School in Inkster, accompanied by their teachers and parents.

Gaining a lot of attention were the two members of the mounted unit and their horses.

Officer Ronald Cadez showed Raider to the youngsters, explaining that the horse was a new one in the department, and that it was expected that he would be a good addition to the mounted unit.

Bullet-proof vests, helmets and gas masks were displayed by Officer Charles Hall, who helped the youngsters try on the heavy vests and helmets. Hall said the SWAT team is used when there is a hostage situation, a barricaded gunman or other dangerous incident.

Another popular display enjoyed by the Meek students were the Sheriff's Department motorcycles and the Marine Unit.

Lt. Larry Schmoekel helped the students put on life jackets and explained some of the rules for safety on the water.

Juan Cross, an investigator with the department, handed out multi-colored badges to "junior officers."

Commander Carl Zahn allowed the students to take turns sitting behind the wheel of a patrol car.

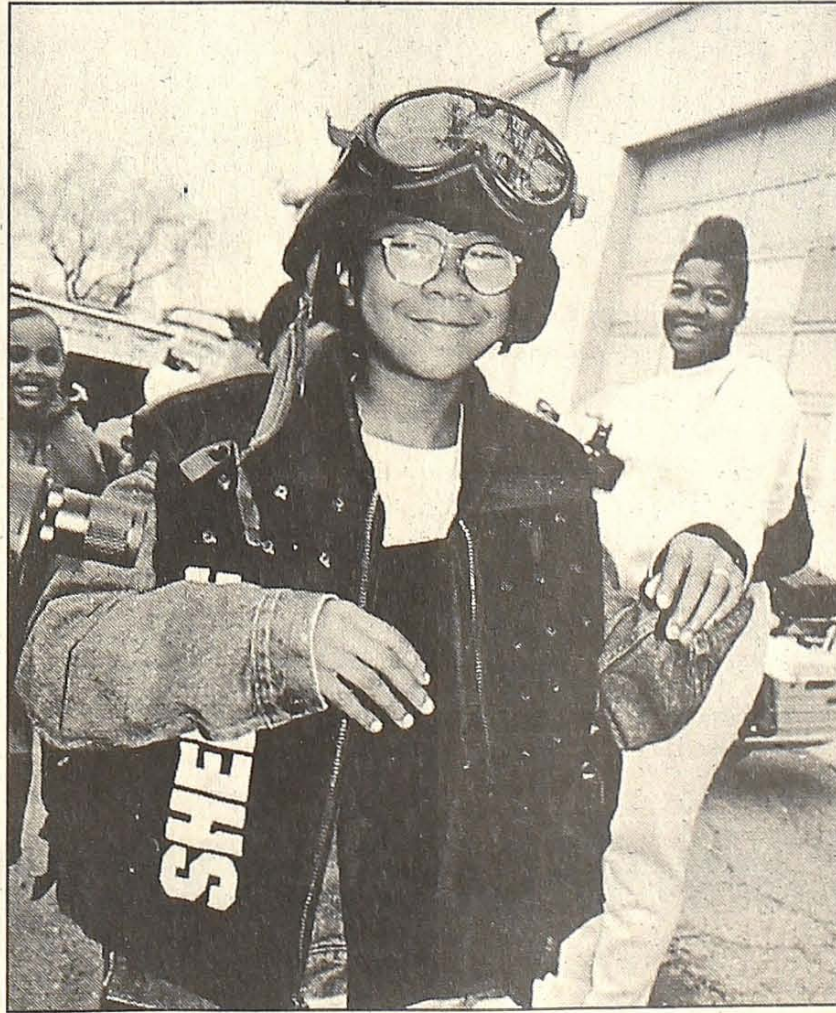

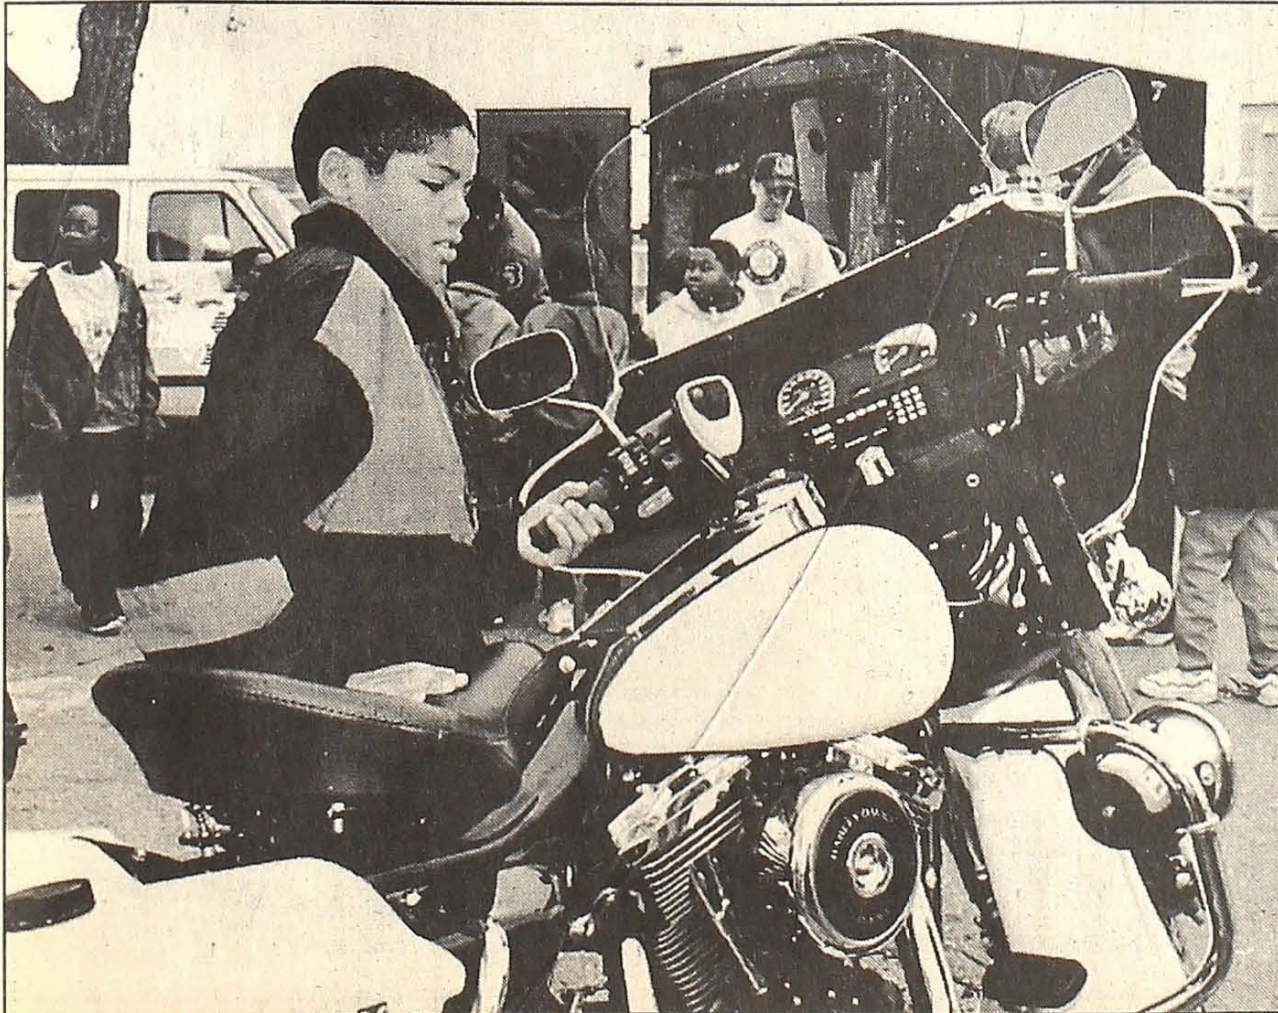

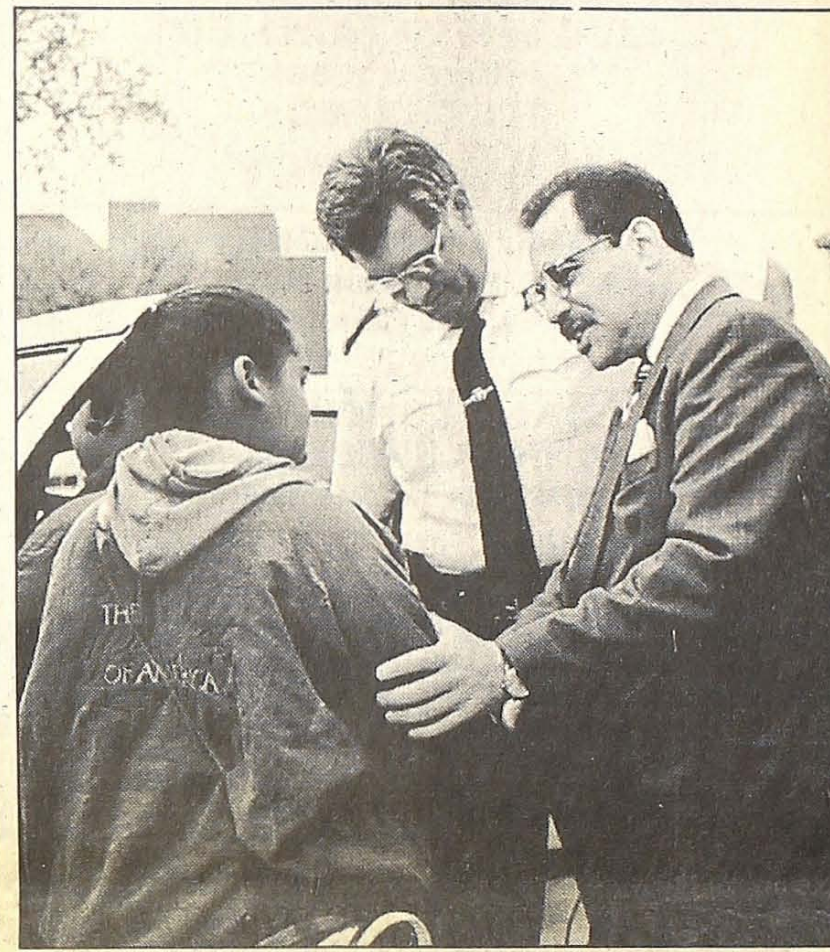

The Sheriff's Department also had a simulated crash which deployed an air bag, and a model which illustrated what happens in a roll-over accident - both of which were popular exhibits for the students.

Sheriff Ficano talked to the youngsters and teachers and answered questions posed to him.

For those who visited the open house, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department revealed many more facets of its operation than most visitors had been aware of. And, perhaps, the department may have recruited one or two future deputies.

Grandparents Day observed

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

More than 400 Cory Elementary School grandparents (or other special relatives) were honored recently by the students and the school staff.

The day's activities began in the multi-media room, where grandparents and others enjoyed refreshments and viewed a school district video, which encouraged strong participation between family members and school officials.

The honored guests then moved to the gymnasium where Principal Phyllis Atkins introduced some special guests and then parents, Janet DuFore and Dean Solomon, highlighted some talented Cory students.

Atkins is a strong supporter of such special days, feeling they promote good study habits and stress the importance of school life.

One student, Nicole Goodman, honored her special aunt, Marsha Bergeron, by welcoming her to school and presenting her with a special essay. In her write-up Nicole wrote "What makes my Aunt Marsha special is the way she helps take care of me. She is nice, good, thankful and never is mean to me!"

Golf Classic slated

The Westland Chamber of Commerce will stage its annual Golf Classic on June 24 at Pheasant Run Golf Club in Canton.

Zech honored by YMCA

At the YMCA of Metropolitan Detroit's 144th annual meeting, 16 volunteers were honored for their generous service.

Some were parents, dedicated to both their children and the Y's quality programs, executives from many companies and, most of all, humanitarians.

What makes this team of volunteers so vital is the strength, encouragement and wisdom each incorporates into his or her YMCA service.

This year, the Wayne-Westland Branch recognized John Zech, Wayne city manager, who serves as vice chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee for the Metropolitan Board of Directors.

At his branch, Zech has enhanced overall public relations as well as fund-raising for the annual campaign, Invest in Youth, which provides program scholarships to youth and families in need. He has recruited a number of new board members and, in his efforts to see the Wayne-Westland Branch continue to grow, committed to an additional year as board chairman.

Zech is active in the Wayne-Westland community and brings his strong belief in the mission of the Y where he goes.

Western Wayne County Christian men, fresh from a successful Michigan Promise Keepers Conference earlier this month at the Silverdome, are already planning their involvement at this Oct. 4's rally in Washington, D.C.

The six hour session (from noon to 6 p.m. that day) will include heavy time of prayer and reflection and hoped for revival of Christian life styles.

National organizers are hoping that the 19 Promise Keepers Conferences across the U.S. this summer will spur interest in the 'Stand in the Gap: A Sacred Assembly for Men' gathering.

"Men have come together here (the D.C. National Mall) to wage war and to demonstrate. This gathering is not to show our power before men, but to display our spiritual poverty before Almighty God," Promise Keepers President Randy Phillips said.

While comparisons with Louis Farrakhan's Million Man March are inevitable, Phillips said, this outing will include representatives of all races and cultures. It is expected between 500,000 and 1 million men will take part.

Unlike regular Promise Keepers conferences, this outing will be free of charge and there will be no meals supplied, Phillips revealed.

Former University of Colorado football coach and Promise Keepers founder Bill McCartney stated: the response to this event has been overwhelming. We foresee this as being the new beginning for countless families and communities

"During this six-hour period we will confess our sins and repent before Almighty God. We will seek His face and pray that He pours out His Holy Spirit to heal our land," McCartney said quoting from 2 Chronicles 7:14.

Blue grass music will be offered by Whitestone.

Metro Life Choices provides pregnant women with material goods, baby furniture, counseling and referrals for educational assistance, housing needs and work programs.

St. John Neumann's Singles Group of Canton will offer its annual Summer Blast Dance on June 14 from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Organizers urge that clothing other than jeans be worn that night. Dance music will be provided by DJ James Dunn. Tickets cost $8.

Further information can be obtained by calling Cheryl Potok at 810-426-0095 or Bill McDermott at 313-641-2398.

Navigator launched in Wayne

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Although the Lincoln Navigator won't be in dealers' showrooms until July 1, more than 9,000 orders for the "tough but sophisticated" four-door utility vehicle are already on hand.

In his comments at the Michigan Truck Plant launch celebration, Jac Nasser, president of Ford Automotive Operations, called the Navigator "Arnold Schwarzenegger in a tuxedo -- tough, but sophisticated."

Frank Foley, Michigan Truck Plant manager, said the Navigator gives Ford a "solid lead in the sports utility market."

"We have met the challenge and we're capable of any challenge," said Foley, applauding the team work of employees and management.

"The Navigator will be in good hands in Wayne," said Nasser. "Keep up the good work."

Nasser said he did not make a practice of giving complements to individuals, but felt it was appropriate to name the workers who had put extra effort into the successful launch.

The Ford president said he expected the Navigator to be exported to Latin America and the Middle East.

Jeff Washington, UAW Local 900 chairman, said the new vehicle will carry the plant to the 21st century and told the workers to watch for the profit-sharing checks next year.

"This is the greatest local. We've come up from 3,100 members to 7,400," Washington said.

"It's the hottest," said Ford worker Adrian Wilding of Canton. "It means more jobs for us here."

"The Navigator means job security for everybody, and more employees," said Terry Castillo of Westland, a Ford supervisor.

When asked if the Navigator was in their budgets, the workers noted that leasing a Navigator was affordable for them.

Attending the ceremony were Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield, City Manager John Zech, Councilwoman Donna McEachern, and Councilman Al Haidous, all of whom said the Navigator will have a major impact on the economy in Wayne and surrounding areas.

"This means a solid tax base for the city for years to come, and jobs for people for years to come," said Zech. "Ford means a lot to the people of Wayne and surrounding areas."

"The taxes generated from this plan will enhance the quality of life for the people of Wayne," said McEachern.

"It's put a move into the 21st century. This is a first-class vehicle and Wayne is a first-class city," said Warfield, noting that the city of Wayne will keep pace with the forward moving Ford facility.

The Navigator officially goes on sale at Lincoln dealerships on July 1. In addition, the Ford Expedition has been so strong that Ford has dedicated the Michigan Truck Plant to producing full-size four-door utility vehicles.

"Our customers are voting with their hard-earned dollars, and this is what they are voting for -- a high quality, luxury, all-purpose vehicle," said Nasser. "Navigator represents the best in its segment and together with our partners and teammates in the UAW, we're proud to deliver it."

Nasser said that demand for the new Lincoln Navigator, along with the continued strong orders for Expedition and F-Series pickups, has led to a 50,000 unit system-wide increase in truck production capacity this year.

Nasser and Ernie Lofton, UAW vice president and director of the national Ford department, drove one of the first Navigators off the line and joined employees in a ceremony marking the start up of production.

Ford has instituted a number of new practices at the plant specifically for Navigator production. Among them is a 25-mile road test for each Navigator to ensure customer satisfaction. In addition, a fleet of pre-production Navigators has been driven nearly one million miles in field evaluations to improve the quality of regular production vehicles.

The Michigan Truck Plant began producing the Ford Expedition last July. It now adds Lincoln Navigator production and has increased its capacity to 282,000 Expeditions and Navigators annually.

Artist is small 'home builder'

Susan Horstmann of Milan builds beautiful homes and people buy them but they do not move into them. That is because the homes Horstmann builds are ceramic homes. The homes are approximately seven inches in diameter and four inches in height. This creation process is just as detailed as building a home — well almost.

The process begins by Horstmann using photographs of the building which are taken at different angles. The photographs provide an architectural blueprint to sculpt the home from clay. The model is slowly dried, fired, and then hand painted by Horstmann.

Depending on the complexity of the home the time involved varies from eight to 15 hours. Those who request Horstmann to create a replica are typically people who want to give a unique, personalized gift to someone who desires to carry on the memory of a cherished home. In addition to homes, Horstmann has created models of churches, office buildings, restaurants, quaint inns, and family cottages.

After earning a bachelor of arts degree with a concentration in art, from Central Michigan University, Horstmann went on to earn a teaching certificate from Eastern Michigan University.

Upon graduating from college, Horstmann substitute taught at local schools, and then decided to start her own business. Her first project was a replica of a home located on Layton Lane in Appleton, Wisconsin, and she named her business after the street.

Her works will be displayed at the Plymouth Art in the Park event between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. July 12 and 13.

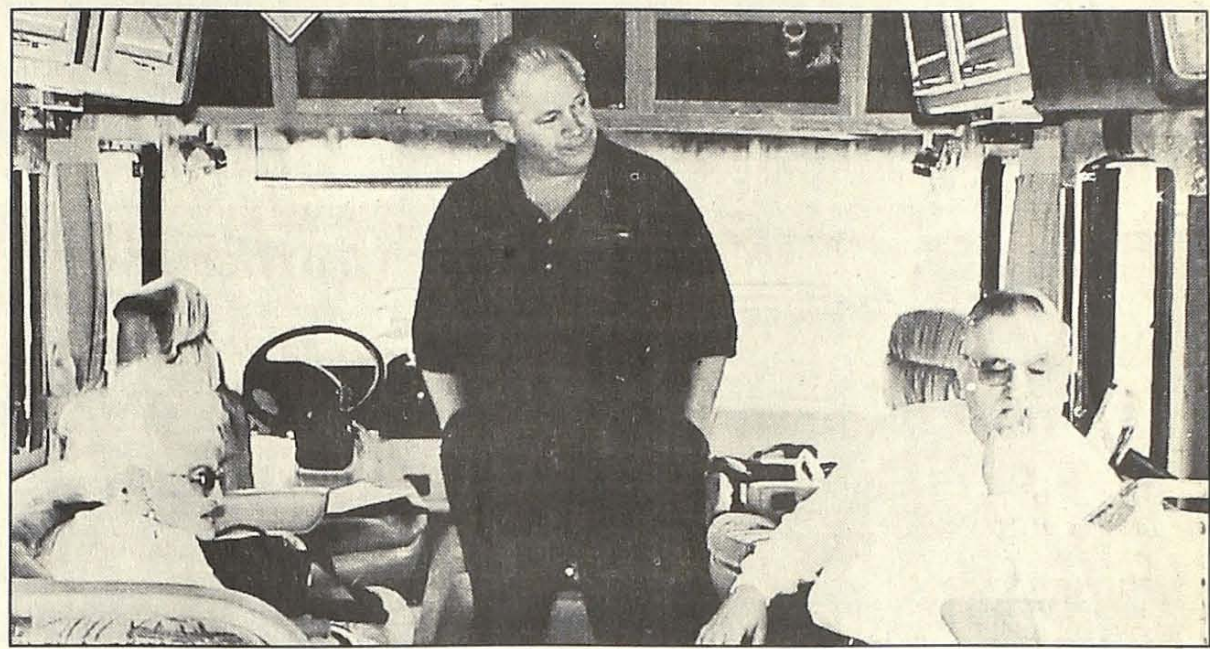

Additional information on Layton Lane Ceramic Homes can be obtained by calling 439-3941.

Merriman reporters compile 'Room 5 News'

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Parents of budding journalists at Merriman Elementary School in Romulus hope that no one will ever yell "stop the presses" any time in the near future.

The young reporters for the Room 5 News thoroughly enjoy their news beats and their most avid readers (their parents) can't wait until the newspapers are delivered to their homes each Friday.

The editor, Barbara Jaszcz, directs her team of first grade news hawks gently but firmly into creating a quality eight-page tabloid complete with news items and artwork.

"I have found that my children enjoy this weekly experience and take very seriously the articles they write," Jaszcz related.

As the school year unfolds, the students' writing improves significantly, she added.

Each edition carries a letter from the editor, outlining upcoming school activities. The rest is filled with choice news items from the first graders with the assistance of junior editors from the sixth grade.

The final drafts of the stories are typed into a computer that is complete with a "spell check" device.

Each article is accompanied by a drawing that is shrunk down to a printable size via a copying machine.

Principal Mary McGill agrees with editor Jaszcz that the newspaper project is a very effective way for students to increase their writing skills and to communicate with their parents.

"I have a number of parents who tell me how much they enjoy the newspaper. One father told me the newspaper is the first thing he reads when he arrives home each Friday," McGill said.

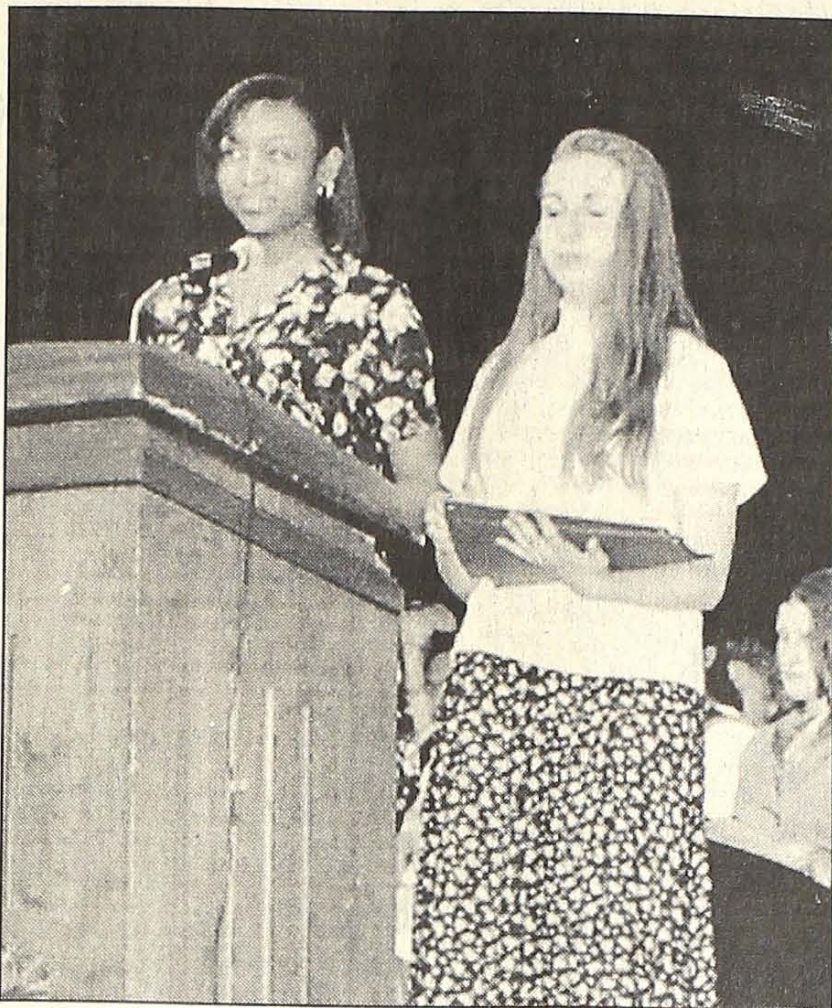

One reporter, Heather Jones, revealed in the latest edition "My cat is pregnant. Her name is Allen."

Another scribe, Chiara Snook, wrote "This is what I did this weekend. I went to a wedding and reception! There was a huge cake and I had two pieces. It was the best cake I ever had."

And finally Amanda Menser stated "When I went up north, my cousins had two cats. One had no tail and the other had a tail."

"I got a chance to keep the cat without a tail. He is white and meows softly," Amanda added.

Examples of the Room 5 News have been shared with other teachers in Wayne County. So parents outside of Merriman School may soon see similar newspapers on the market soon.

'Liberator' Award presented

The annual Yankee Air Force "Liberator" Award was presented at The University of Michigan ROTC annual tri-services awards ceremony to Air Force Cadet Daniel Koenigsmann by YAF President Donald G. Harner. The award is presented to the AFOTC sophomore whose attitude, enthusiasm and leadership best exemplifies the image and the heritage of the World War II B-24 Liberator air crews.

This award was originated by Harold W. Sherman, YAF Library Chairman and was first presented in 1991. The award is a framed photograph of the "Michigan", a consolidated B-24J Liberator bomber of World War II on whose nose was painted a picture of a female cheerleader with a back-drop of a football game in The University of Michigan Stadium. The "Michigan" served with the 64th Bombardment Squadron, 43rd Bombardment Group, 5th U.S. Army Air Force in the southwest Pacific Theater of war. Although this airplane was not built there, the Ford Motor Company built 8,685 of these bombers at their Willow Run bomber plant.

Fired-up Rockets win first regional track title

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Brushing aside torrential rains and hostile weather conditions, Westland John Glenn captured their first-ever Class A regional track & field championship on Saturday at Redford Union High School.

The fired-up Rockets, fueled by an impeccable 5-0 Western Lakes Conference and a 7-1 overall record, outlasted an exceptional team out of northwest Detroit (Chadsey) to emerge atop of a field of 18 teams that included local schools - Plymouth-Salem, Plymouth-Canton, and Wayne Memorial.

"It was a great team effort," said Glenn coach Jess Shough, who is completing his 28th year as coach. "These kids competed in pouring rain, and they withstood the elements. Would you believe that some of our kids actually bettered their individual performances in those hostile conditions?"

The Westlanders amassed a total of 78 points to win the regional and qualify for the Class A state championships which will be conducted in Rockford on May 31.

Glenn's Mike Samples and Harden James also managed to post personal bests in winning their specialties - the discus and the 100-meter dash, respectively. Glenn also received a gold-medal performance from its 400-meter relay team.

Wayne Memorial's Ron Pennington cashed in his sterling effort in the shot put for a gold, while Plymouth-Salem's 3200-meter relay team made up of Andy Briggs, Matt Fair, Kevin Conte and Ian Searcy also had a gold-medal day when they edged Detroit Catholic Central at the wire for a first-place.

The Rocks turned in a 8:09.0 to DCC's 8:13.1.

Trailing the No.1 and No. 2 teams at the regionals, in order, were: Plymouth-Salem (57), Livonia Franklin (48), Livonia Churchill (46), Dearborn (45), Detroit Catholic Central (43), Detroit Cass Technical (40), Detroit Cody (38), Dearborn Fordson (27), Plymouth-Canton (16), Livonia Stevenson (10), Wayne Memorial (10), Redford Union (7), Garden City (1), Ladywood High (0), Southwestern High (0), and Detroit Western (0).

Pennington's toss in the shot put of 53'06.75 won the event. A close second was Glenn's Samples, who turned in with a 52'02.23. However, Samples was not to be denied a gold. He came back and put the discus in orbit for 158'06" to win the event. Plymouth-Canton's Kevin Keil settled for the silver with a toss of 145'01.

Glenn's gifted athlete - David Jarrett - finished second-best in the long jump with Cody High's William Hall capturing the gold. Jarrett's leap of 21'11" was topped by Hall who soared 22'04".

In the extremely tough and hazardous (it rained most of the time) pole vault competition, Glenn's Randy Glenn finished fifth behind Livonia vaulters Paul Terek (Franklin), Jake Lande (Dearborn) and Matt Rose (Churchill).

Salem turned in an incredible performance, again in the rain, in the 3200-meters where Briggs, Fair, Conte and Searcy were clocked in the winning time of 8:09.0

Russell, relays power Romulus

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

The weather conditions were described as "horrible", but that didn't stop Romulus coach Norb Glover's Eagles from winning their "fair share" of medals at the Class A regional track & field competition staged during a downpour on Saturday at Monroe High.

Romulus' Fred Russell managed to splash his way to a gold medal in the 100-yard dash, then joined his teammates in the 400-meter relay for a second gold.

In the 100-meter dash, Russell bolted from the field and never looked back until he clinched his first gold.

The Romulus sprinter ran a 10.52, a new school record. The previous best, a 10.6, was set in 1994 by Phillip Franklin.

Russell's teammates for that winning sprint relay team included Brian Tyus, Darius Fowler and Nick McKinnie who churned a 44.05.

The Eagles also came close in the 800-relay where they were involved in a photo finish with Ypsilanti's foursome. The Braves came away with the gold on the strength of a 1:31.4 performance.

Romulus' Russell, Fowler, Randy Frison and Steve Smith were awarded the silver for their 1:31.4 effort.

McKinnie turned in the best jump of the afternoon in the long jump. The 18-year-old senior leaped 21'10 1/2" for the gold.

"The conditions were horrible," said Glover afterwards. "But I felt we got a good share of the medals. There were events I felt we could have, should have performed better."

"Personally, I felt that the weather played a key role here. I really don't recall weather conditions for a regional as worse as it was on Saturday."

Glover also noted he felt his state qualifiers will do well in the state finals.

Rockets shoot for state title

Fired up by an impressive victory at the Class A regionals, Westland John Glenn's Rockets (above) are taking aim at the state championships which will be staged May 31 in Rockford. Coach Jess Shough and his runners managed to overcome hostile weather conditions on Saturday to surface with an 18-point margin of victory over their closest challenger, Detroit Chadsey, at the Redford Union regional to earn their first regional title. 4 gold-medal winner Craig leads Robichaud to state

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

A year ago, Tamika Craig led Robichaud to a Class B state track & field championship.

Can the 17-year-old senior who boasts a perfect attendance record in the Westwood School District do it again?

Off of her performances at the regional finals, Craig may just be able to do the impossible.

The talented Craig won three regional golds in the sprints, and she also anchored the Bulldogs' 400-meter relay team which placed first.

"She is an incredible athlete and person," said veteran Robichaud coach Francis McCauley. "But I don't like to put pressure on any one athlete. The success of a team depends upon how each and every member of a team performs."

She is an incredible athlete and person, but I don't like to put pressure on any one athlete.

- Francis McCauley

If Craig's four gold-medals at the Ypsilanti Lincoln regional leaves the impression that the Bulldogs are a one-dimensional team, quickly erase that from your mind.

Robichaud has several outstanding athletes, and in that category fall Andrea McGrew, Lori Alverson, Althea Graham and Tracey Scott - enough, maybe, for a repeat.

"Each and every member of our team has excelled in their own right," McCauley pointed out. "Each brings to this team certain talents that make them winners."

At Ypsi Lincoln on Saturday, Robichaud runners were forced by Grosse Ile to accept the role of a "bridesmaid". The Islanders won the regional title with 90 points, 19 points to spare. Robichaud was second with 71 and Dearborn Divine Child finished third-best.

Craig posted an easy victory in the 100-meter dash as she led the field to the finish line. She was clocked in 12.5. She also captured a gold in the 200, thanks to a 16.5 run and completed a sweep in the sprints by winning the 400-meters. That was accomplished in one-minute flat.

Craig also anchored the Weather is playing hardball with local high school teams

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

You may not be able to do anything about Michigan weather, but complain, and that's what area coaches are doing these days.

The weather has kept coaches on the edge and forced them to reschedule and reschedule in a season that is already short.

"We even had to practice indoors on Sunday because of the weather," moaned Plymouth-Salem coach Dale Rumberger. "In mid-May we usually do get some decent weather in these parts, but that hasn't been the case this year."

Because of the unseasonable weather, Salem has joined a host of other local and area teams that have cancelled or rescheduled or both many of their games.

"There has to be some continuity in your training and playing if you're going to get positive results from what you're attempting to accomplish," Rumberger continued. "This year we have not gotten that."

Wayne Memorial's veteran coach Jim Chronowski agreed.

"It's been tough on all of us," Chronowski offered. "Like I mentioned last week, I had to use gloves on the sidelines because it was so cold. And I don't recall ever doing that. There's nothing anybody can do about it. It's Michigan."

Wayne and Salem will go their separate ways next week in hopes of winning a district title. Wayne will join Belleville, Romulus, Westland John Glenn and Taylor Center in its quest of a district crown at Belleville, while Salem, for the first time, is traveling to Livonia Ladywood, in search of a post-season title.

Ladywood is hosting its first Class A district baseball championship and assigned to the district will be playoff favorite Detroit Catholic Central, Plymouth-Canton, Livonia Stevenson and Livonia Churchill. The district pairings were to be conducted on Monday at the host schools.

In the meantime, Wayne Memorial may have reached a point of no return in its quest

Frosh to lead Vikings from rags to riches?

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

There are many rag-to-riches stories.

Some involve someone picking six numbers and winning $30 million in the Lotto.

Others are about people who have the patience, overcome obstacles and resolve their frustrations with hard work.

Some reach their goals; others don't.

And, in the case of Inkster High baseball coach Jerome Orr, he feels that his down-in-the-dumps Vikings will reach their rags-to-riches goal on the shoulders of several talented freshmen who are the building blocks of a team that will be leaving their mark on the diamonds in the area and in the Mega Conference next year.

"It's frustrating now," admits the veteran Viking coach. "We've won only one game this year. The true fiber of a team is how the players handle losing. It could disappoint a lot of coaches and players, but these kids realize that we can win and we will win. But it will take time.

This has not been an easy year for all of us around here, but I am proud of these kids.

"Give these kids a lot of credit. They show up day-after-day, take it on the chin, fall, and brush themselves off and stand up to face their opponent the next day. It isn't easy."

this year's roster, and these kids face veteran, experienced teams," Orr continues. "You know who we may face in the districts?"

And, in one breath, Orr answers his own question - D. C.'s Ryan Anderson.

That's Dearborn Divine Child's sensational senior hurler Ryan Anderson, who is considered the No. 1 high school pitcher in the country this year.

Orr reads off a list of first-year players, like Robert Hudson, Marcus Gray, Terrence Thompson, Dennis Miller, Ernest Height, Jerel Dillard, Mike Wells, James Barney and Jason Gray to support his confidence in the future.

"These are players with a lot of potential," Orr contends.

"This has not been an easy year for all of us around here," Orr continues, "but I am proud of these kids. We have a lot of work ahead of us. But I am confident that this team is going to stick it out."

fied for the state with his performance in the 110-meter hurdles where he finished in 15.10 for the bronze. Churchill's Ryan Kearney came away with the gold after a run of 14.8.

James, who owns the 100-meter record at Glenn, also refused to allow the incessant rains to bother him. He beat Cass Tech's premier runner, Samuel Card, across the finish line in the 100-meters, posting a 10.9 to Card's 11 seconds.

With James anchoring the 800-meter relay team, the Rockets finished fourth thanks to the performances of Reggie Spearmon, Steve Hester, and Aaron Stephens. Glenn's time was 1:32.6. Chadsey runners dominated the effort. They turned a 1:30.9.

In his final regional appearance, Glenn's premier distance-runner, Joe Wojtowicz, finished with the bronze in the 1600-meter run. Wojtowicz's time was a 4:35, off the pace set by winner Nathan Jerome (Livonia Churchill) who covered the distance in 4:31.8. Josh Burt of Franklin was runner up with 4:34.20.

Glenn's record-setting and state qualifying 400-meter relay foursome of Spearmon, Hester, Aaron Stephens and James edged Dearborn at the wire for the gold. The Rockets turned in a 44.7 to the Pioneer's 44.9 for the first.

Glenn, which is shooting for its first-ever Western Lakes Conference title, will have to get past a revitalized Plymouth-Salem and a loaded Farmington Harrison Hills squad to reach its goal.

The conference championship was to be decided Tuesday night.

for the Mega Conference Red Division championship. Once in the title pack, Chronowski's Zebras were booted out by back-to-back losses to the frontrunners, Southgate Anderson and Monroe.

Monroe exploded for nine runs in the bottom of the second inning to rout Wayne's Charlie Leverenz from the mound and posted a lopsided 14-2 victory on Wednesday.

Winning pitcher Matt Wilson held Wayne to four harmless hits, two of those off the bat of J. C. Blevins who rapped a pair of singles.

Against Anderson, Wayne struck for a two-out bottom of the first inning run on walks to Clark Boston and Leverenz, followed by Clendening's single, but the Zebras couldn't hang on.

Anderson came back with two-run rallies in the top of the fifth and seventh frames.

Clendening collected all three of Wayne's hits, and he also suffered the loss. The senior righthander gave up five hits, fanned six and walked three in a loss in which his teammates should have been sued for non-support.

The atypical Wayne infield committed a total of seven errors, and that's not like a Chronowski-coached ball team.

Anderson's Tommy Carr had a phenomenal day as he notched 120 strikeouts, walked three in a three-hit pitching performance.

In the meantime, Salem's Rocks have sunk to the bottom of the Western Lakes Division after a horrendous week. Walley Lake Central erupted for five runs in the second inning en route to a 8-1 victory and title-starved Farmington Harrison turned back Rumberger's club 8-3.

The two losses left Salem with a 1-8 record in the division and a 9-14 overall mark.

Against Harrison, Salem allowed their rivals to slip the noose in the fourth when a pair of errors led to four big runs and a loss for junior hurler Kurt Berlin, who worked 5 1/3 innings.

Salem also wasted Phil Cosens' roundtripper which sailed over the right center-field fence.

Over in the Lakes Division, Farmington has wrapped up the division and awaits the winner of the Harrison and Central game to see which they will play for the conference championship.

Salem has a makeup doubleheader with Westland John Glenn, a team that is also having their share of problems this year.

Glenn and Salem may have to prove their points in the playoffs, which get underway for most of the local teams after the Memorial Day holiday.

Bulldogs' 400-meter relay team. McCauley picked McGrew, Alverson and Graham to complete the lineup.

McGrew also took home a pair of medals, including a gold, for her display case. Her leap of 16'8" set the regional standard.

McGrew also placed second in the 300-meter hurdles. Her time was 49.87.

Graham, who finished third in the 400-meter dash (63.8) also qualified for state in that event. Unfortunately, Tracey Scott, just missed the qualifying distance in the shot put, where she was awarded a regional bronze for a toss of 32'8 1/2."

The Class B state championships will be staged on May 31 at Lowell High School, located near Grand Rapids.

"A repeat is extremely difficult for many factors," stressed McCauley, who added there is a score of outstanding girls' track teams competing this year. "We obviously have some very gifted athletes, but when it comes to the state meet, anything goes."

The Robichaud coach said that Corunna, which won the Michigan State Relays earlier in the year, Dearborn Divine Child, Flint Powers, and Jackson Northwest have exceptional teams this year and may wind up with the coveted title.

Next year, the Bulldogs will find themselves in a conference. They have been accepted for membership in the Mega Conference, however, what division in the four-tier conference they will be assigned is presently not known, according to McCauley.

are set for May 31 at Rockford High School.

Before the Eagles fly to Rockford, however, they are scheduled for a return trip to Monroe to decide which team would be crowned the next Mega Conference Red Division champ.

Glover said he felt Monroe, which won the regional it hosted, is the odds-on-favorite to win the conference title.

"They (Monroe) won the regional and I don't see anyone, maybe with the exception of Dearborn, even coming close," said the Romulus coach.

New generation of Ford trucks capture drivers' hearts

By KAREN STRONSKI
MCN Automotive Writer

A new generation of re-styled and expanded truck models revolutionizes the full-size pickup truck segment and cements the appeal of the 1997 on the job, the F-250 retains its Ford Tough mannerisms. Innovations such as the industries first third door on the Super-Cab models and improved interior comfort and convenience are expected to appeal to personal-use-buyers commercial use.

The new F-150 and F-250 share design elements and feature a larger, more aerodynamic and muscular looking front end that compliments its hard working personality. Unfortunately though, the F-250 has an uncomfortably high step-in height, making running boards a necessity. Shorter people still have to use the grab handles to help hoist themselves into the interior.

Once aboard there's plenty of room for two, with a better than average comfort for a small middle-seat passenger. I found the stereo system to be outstanding, the room to be plentiful, all of the gadgets to be right at your fingertips, and the shifting to be very smooth and concise. This truck had everything from soup to nuts!

Cargo room is generous even when the rear seat is being used. The full size spare tire is mounted underneath the rear of the vehicle, so it doesn't eat up extra space. The rear seat backs fold flat for extra cargo room. There is also ample interior storage, including a roomy glove box, map pockets on both doors, covered and open bins between the front seats, and two cup holders that pop out of the dashboard. Unfortunately, when the dashboard cup holders are in use, they block the climate controls.

The F-250 offers a new Triton 5.4 liter SOHC V-8 engine. It produces 235 horsepower at 4250 rpm's, 30 more horsepower than the 5.8 liter V-8 engine it replaces, and 330 ft-lbs of torque at 3000 rpm's. It links to a standard electronic four-speed automatic transmission, the only transmission available with this engine. Highway passing in this truck is a breeze. Accelerating from a dead stop is also not a problem. This truck really moves. The suspension is tight and the ride is smooth.

Lets now talk a little bit about gas mileage and price. Well, there's not much to talk about gas wise. The mileage was terrible -- 12 miles per gallon city and 16 highway. I guess that's what one can expect from a V-8. Price wise though, Wow, $20,600 base price and $24,000 as tested. I consider that a great deal, when you think about all of the competition out there.

I found the Ford F-250 to be athletic looking, as you can see. Athletic acting, as you can feel, and a great value for the buck!

Ford F-Series Supercab Pickup

Ford F-250.

More aggressively and aerodynamically styled, the all new F-250 boasts a new body, chassis and suspension system. It also has a larger cab and a new engine line-up. The F-series has basically been totally revamped.
